

PROTECT AGAINST PREDATORS

UPC

WELL-TRAINED HARDWORKING DOGS, donkeys, and llamas are an increasingly popular and effective solution to livestock predation. Properly selected and managed, these guardian animals protect sheep, goats, and other livestock from wolves, bears, mountain lions, coyotes, and many smaller predators.

Jan Dohner's complete guide to working with guardian animals shows you how to select the right breed for your needs, establish deep bonds between guardian and livestock, and train your guard animal to carry out his duties reliably and effectively. Dohner's practical advice will help you successfully integrate a guard animal into your farm for years of inexpensive, nonlethal safety and security.

Janet Vorwald Dohner has raised and worked with guardian dogs for 26 years. She has been involved in every stage of the process — from training puppies to bonding the dogs to the sheep, goats, chickens, turkeys, and horses on her own farm. Dohner is the past vice president of the Kangal Dog Club of America.
