

Chickens—why not? Tens of thousands of people in all areas of the country enjoy raising these birds, whether for food or companionship. Of course, you may want to read LIVING WITH CHICKENS just for the sheer joy of it. Straightforward prose and illustrations give any future chicken farmer the tools he or she needs to get started. Jay Rossier draws on his own experiences and those of his fellow poultrymen in discussing everything from feeding and housing the birds to keeping marauders from invading the coop. Personal anecdotes, interesting facts, and lush, full-color photographs round out this indispensable guide.

JAY ROSSIER, coauthor of A New Lease On Farmland and a contributor to Northern Woodlands magazine, looks after various fowls with his wife and children at their home in Vermont. GEOFF HANSEN'S photographs have appeared in Newsweek, USA Today, The New York Times, and the Boston Globe. He lives in Vermont with his wife and daughter.

“LIVING WITH CHICKENS will help birds and their owners live in harmony and health.”

—Stephen Green-Armytage, Extraordinary Chickens

“Beautifully realized with superb photographs—chock full of information—a chicken aficionado's delight.”

—Mark Lewis, The Natural History of the Chicken

“A wonderful book, the most comprehensive and easily-digested book about chickens I've come across. Anyone with an interest in chickens will be advised to toss the other books and keep this one.”

—The Valley News

“An uncommonly beautiful book to look at, with just enough lore about these underappreciated animals to keep those of us entertained, who, in the end, will leave the nuggeteering to someone else.”

—The Arkansas Times

“An excellent introduction to chicken basics.”

—Library Journal
